Is there a draft version of the charter available yet?

Lorena,

As you probably already know, I feel that the PBID board is not always as concerned with how the effects that its actions and polices impact the residential and small business stakeholders as it is to the interests of large property owners. Everyone in the BID pays taxes, but I do not feel everyone in the bid has the same voice or is given the same consideration. Since the PBID charter is up for renewal, I think it would be an excellent time for the board to open up the renewal process to all residents, artists and business owners in the area. Please let me know who is in charge of the renewal process and how more people can participate.
